FW: [Non-DoD Source] Souhimbou Kone's Recommendation Request

Bryant, Malachi J SSG USARMY NG NYARNG (USA) <malachi.j.bryant.mil@army.mil> Wed, Aug 30, 2023 at 8:38 AM

To: Souhimbou Kone <skone@alumni.albany.edu>

SPC Kone,

For your records, please see main and sub-body of recommendation submitted to Syracuse University.

[Main Body]

Souhimbou Kone contacted me in the late season of 2022. His inquiry consisted of an inquiry as to how he could be of service in the military. He chose to serve in the New York Army National Guard, identifying with his local community and the federal aspect of service in the United States military. I have been his direct leader since then and offer an honest assessment of his character and observation.

(SPC) Kone has shown the utmost fortitude, timeliness and esprit d' corps in the military. I have gotten to know him over the course of the last year in a more personal aspect. His readiness to serve his community and fellow humans is beyond any other service member or human I have met to date. I have never seen a human more readily concerned person, with the advancement of his fellow citizen, at the forefront of character and daily approach. Mr. Kone takes it as a personal standard to ascertain, assess, implement and achieve the building and advancement of deficient aspects of his immediate community. Through his community outreach of his own volition, he has established a non-profit organization, directly contributes to his fellow human and has become a pillar of his community. I can say this with the utmost distinction, due to his nature, character and personality. When in talks of his obligations to the government and military, it sparked several further questions as his leader that I sought inquiry into what he was occupying his personal time within his non-military duties. I was astounded by his community involvement and contributions to civic enhancement of culture, art, employment skills and humanity. Syracuse University would be remiss in their judgement if they declined to accept Mr. Kone into a higher education program. This is, without shadow of doubt, a candidate who has a reputation that would potentially nominate a brick-and-mortar structure placard with his name.

Mr. Kone's character is beyond reproach. His passion for assistance and teaching has been recognized in several areas of the military as a junior Soldier and we have no doubt that he will contribute immensely to the New York Army National Guard and United States Army over the course of his career. It is rare that we see and acknowledge such a presence in the military as the competition and standard of conduct is level amongst applicants. Mr. Kone stands among the top 1% of candidates I have encountered in my 19-year career. It is with great honor that I strongly recommend Mr. Kone that he be admitted to whichever high education program he applies for, as I am beyond confident that he will not only excel in academia, but revamp and establish a new standard within your fine academic institution.

Mr. Kone is a 1% candidate. It has been an honor to lead him in my professional capacity and I am assured he will surpass expectations set forth of him. It would be the advancement of not only Mr. Kone, but of his local community and I dare say humanity that you admit him to your program of higher learning. The United States Army, his leadership and his peers are enhanced by his presence and contribution. Syracuse University should admit Mr. Kone to acquire the same. I fully endorse that Mr. Kone will bring great credit and honor to Syracuse University.

Respectfully signed,

SSG Malachi Bryant

US Army
